

Special Restricted Driver's License Application Form:

You can apply for a Restricted License if the following requirements have been met:

You have served the length of prohibition as required by the Court Order. This is the prohibition period that a judge has set for you. This prohibition is set under the Criminal Code of Canada and is separate and distinct from any statutory suspension under Saskatchewan's provincial legislation.

You have completed the Driving Without Impairment (DWI) course, an educational program, or you have completed mandatory intake addictions screening and a program as prescribed by an alcohol and drug services counselor and are considered low risk for continued impaired driving.

You have completed your mandatory ignition interlock term and still must serve the provincial suspension (This ONLY applies to alcohol/drug related convictions).

You have paid the $175 restricted license application fee (at any motor license issuer) and have included a copy of that receipt with this application form.

If you were convicted before June 27, 2014 your restricted driving privileges expire once you've completed half of your provincial suspension. At that time, you're eligible for a provisional license.

If you are convicted after June 27, 2014, you will not be eligible for a provisional driver's license and must keep the restricted license until you are eligible for a full driver's license.

Before granting restricted driving privileges the Board must be satisfied that:

You and/or your family is experiencing "exceptional hardship" as a result of the suspension

Your request for driving privileges is not contrary to the public's best interest.

Before rendering a decision, the Board will consider information provided in the application, verbal testimony provided at the hearing and any other relevant information provided (i.e.: letters of reference or support).

Decision

After your appeal has been heard, the Board members have the authority to grant the restricted license or to deny the appeal. You will receive a letter via mail with the hearing results. If successful, you must visit an SGI motor license issuer to purchase a driver's license or a reprint of your driver's license that contains the special restrictions. If unsuccessful, your license will remain suspended until you are eligible for a full driver's license.

Decisions reached by the HTB with regards to your appeal are final and binding.
